Longevity

Extending the life of your hot water unit

By servicing your hot water unit you can extend the life of the appliance. As in all appliances, parts can wear out and sometimes this can go unnoticed until its too late. We have customers who have been using our services for over 20 years and their hot water units are working as good as the day they were installed.

Efficiency

Hot water unit working at it best

In our experience by regularly servicing your gas hot water unit and by replacing worn parts a gas hot water unit will operate more efficiently over its lifetime.

Reliability

Hot water all year round

Having a regular service on your hot water unit ensures prompt and reliable hot water all year round.. Which means less chance of cold showers.

Cost saving

Save money on your running cost

A gas hot water unit that has not been serviced can develop issues such as small water leaks which can cause long term damage, gas leaks, worn parts or old parts not performing correctly, burners not burning gas efficiently. This can cost you extra money with high gas bills and having to replace the appliance prematurely.

Confidence

Worry free hot water

With regular servicing of your gas hot water unit from our highly trained service team you can be confident of having trouble free hot water all year round.
